DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 25-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by USP 5,389,524 (Larsen).

The measuring device was placed in a flowing stream of the liquid medium (flow rate 30 cm.sup.3 /min.). FIG. 7a shows a calibration curve in which the extremum value of the absorbance in period D is taken as a measure of the concentration of bis(diazotized) 3,3'-dichlorobenzidine. As a result of the large differences in refractive index between sample and reagent/reference solutions, the sensitivity (slope) is poor, and large absorbance values are obtained for zero concentration of the bis(diazotized) 3,3'-dichlorobenzidine. In contrast, the calibration curve shown in FIG. 7b was obtained using the absorbance measured at the end of period D. This calibration curve shows satisfactory sensitivity (slope), and the absorbance measured at zero concentration of bis(diazotized) 3,3'-dichlorobenzidine deviates only very slightly from zero. This example thus shows how use of the stopped-flow technique eliminates or greatly reduces interference from the matrix effect.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6/8/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 1743

Applicant admits that Larsen teaches a sample and reagent are flowed and irradiated with a laser and measurements of absorbance and refractive index are made. While Larsen does not teach the thermal detection lens, applicants have not shown any new or unexpected results for using thermal lens versus the laser taught by Larsen. As such, the rejection is properly made and is being maintained.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
